English is spoken by around 360 million people around the world and taught in over 118 countries, making it an incredibly useful language to learn. English language learning will allow you to communicate effectively with people from all over the world, making travelling a lot easier and helping you to learn more about different cultures. The importance of English language can be seen in almost every aspect of our lives. This is especially true in the business world where English is the most common language used and most employers will therefore expect a certain level of English proficiency during the hiring process. Investing in a quality English language course will enhance your employment prospects significantly. English is also the language of science, mathematics, technology, tourism and countless other areas. Still, thinking of reasons to learn English? See the list below for our top reasons:

1. Simplicity is key: English has relatively simple grammar, with simpler plurals, a straightforward verb conjugation and it is mostly gender-neutral, making English language learning easier than some other languages.

2. ABC, easy as 123: The English alphabet is relatively easy to learn in comparison to other languages such as Mandarin which is in symbol form. 3. Online research: Most websites are written in English, helping you to boost your knowledge when researching for your studies and later on in life. 4. Valuable experience: Learning a new language requires a lot of time and patience. Therefore, being able to show off this impressive skill will help you stand out to employers and boost your CV. 5. Meet new people: Studying an English language course will help you to meet interesting people from all walks of life and learn about different cultures too. 6. Language of the media industry: English is the most prevalent language used in movies and TV series around the world. By learning the English language, you'll be able to enjoy more of the latest blockbusters!

Want to invest in a quality English language course? Depending on your future goals, The Language Gallery has a range of English language courses which will set you on the path for a bright future with plenty of employment and learning opportunities. You can find out the list of courses on offer here. The school also offers university pathway programmes designed for international and EU students to prepare you for a UK university at the undergraduate or postgraduate level. Find out more about the pathway programme .Benefit of learning English #1: Improve and widen employment opportunities .As the primary language of communication across the globe, proficiency in English is a highly sought-after skill in the international workplace and one of the benefits of learning English is therefore that it significantly boosts your job opportunities. Job applicants with fluency in English on their CV/resumé are statistically proven to have increased hiring potential. This may prove especially important in 2023 as many countries experience economic downturn and unemployment, partly as a result of the COVID-19 pandemic. It is also widely recognised that those with second language fluency, whether they are bilingual or have studied a foreign language, can generally expect a higher salary (up to 10% – 15%) than those without. It's worth noting that some global professions have a particular need for English speakers, given that the main language within them – and global communication conducted within their communities – is English. The business world and international trade are, of course, known for their use of English, and English has, for example, also become the international language of science and medicine since the mid 20th century. English is also the main language of the internet. An estimated 565 million people use the internet every day, and an estimated 55.5% of the world's most visited websites are displayed in the English language. American companies such as IBM, Microsoft and other tech pioneers were the ones who invented the first programming languages, and English is still the most widely used and therefore most important language in the world of programming and coding. Benefit #2: Explore the world with confidence. Travel and exploring the world are once again on many people's agendas. As well as countries where English is the main language, such as the UK, United States, Canada, New Zealand and Australia, there are scores of different countries which also list English as an official language! These include Malaysia, Singapore, Fiji, Kenya, Hong Kong, India, Mauritius and the Philippines. Benefit #3: Access world-class education systems and establishments Another reason to study English is the access it can give you to some of the best education systems and institutes in the world. Many of the world's best universities are either situated in the UK and the USA, or use English as the main language for their courses, and English skills are therefore key when it comes to applying. If you aspire to study at an English-speaking university, including the likes of Harvard, Stanford, Oxford, Cambridge or MIT, then achieving English proficiency is essential. Benefit #4: Increase your cognitive ability (aka, brain power!) Learning a second language is proven to be one of the best ways to keep your brain challenged and active. Studies have shown that the brain undergoes changes in electrical activity and even structure and size while learning another language; changes which do not occur when learning any other type of task or skill. No matter what age you start at, there are benefits to learning a new language in addition to your native language. It is now known that people who speak more than one language fluently have better memories and are more cognitively creative than those who don't, and in addition, studies suggest that the onset of dementia and Alzheimer's disease are diagnosed later for bilinguals than for monolinguals, meaning that knowledge of a second language can help us to stay mentally healthy for longer. Benefit #5: Start a life in an English-speaking country Another benefit of learning English is that it can offer you the chance to move to an English-speaking country. Often, to become a citizen in an English-speaking country, you must achieve a certain level of English proficiency. Speaking and understanding English will also improve your chances of finding employment, and will help you converse and communicate successfully with those around you – whether it's at the supermarket, the doctors, or with new friends and neighbours.
