

THE INTERNET IS SOME NEGATIVE FOR LANGUAGES EFFECTS

Mamatursunova Marhabo G'ulomjon kizi

Yuldasheva Mehriyo Sa'dullo kizi

students of Andijan state institute of foreign languages

Senior teacher: Egamberdiyeva Iroda Abdurahimovna

ANNOTATION: This article focuses on the role, importance, and necessity of the Internet, which is considered equally important for everyone, as well as its negative and positive effects and consequences on languages, as well as the Internet networks.

KEY WORDS: Modern technologies, globalization, internet, destructive, orthography, orthoepy, internet networks, sites, applications, Uzbek Latin alphabet.

The 21st century, as we all know, is an age in which modern technologies and the Internet are developing day by day. In today's increasingly globalized era, compared to previous times, people's need for social networks has increased significantly, and the time spent on social media is just too much. For this reason, social networks, that is, the Internet, are becoming more and more deeply rooted today. At a time when every industry is developing rapidly, the Internet is definitely necessary for everyone. Regardless of the field of activity of people, the Internet is becoming important and significant for people not only during their work activities, but also in their personal life. It goes without saying that such situations seem normal for us when we look at them from one side (with superficial views). In fact, it would not be wrong to say that the situations and problems mentioned above are worthy enough to think about and think deeply about, just like the other side of the coin.

As we all know, there are many different social networks that can be used on the Internet. Looking at the information provided by scientists and psychologists, compared to older people, among middle-aged and young people, in order to fight against "destructive" ideas and ideological views, they have both spiritual and material immunity. and his own world view is not fully formed. For this reason, young people are more likely to believe what they hear, read, see and information. Unfortunately, it is one of the undeniable truths that such situations have significant negative and positive effects on the life, spirituality and culture of young people, and certainly on their personal psyche.

Everything in human life has positive and negative sides and effects. Therefore, the Internet and social networks, which we regularly use in our daily lives, certainly have their own negative and positive aspects. There is no way not to use information and modern technical tools that are developing rapidly day by day, or not to refer to them. It is not an exaggeration to say that modern information technologies and the Internet are important and significant reasons for the development of people's worldview to a certain extent (when viewed from the positive side), and for the appropriate change of their spiritual and material life. As proof of this, we can cite the following:

We can get information that people want and need, international news, and information that is interesting and interesting for such people. It should also be mentioned that the Internet and social networks create the opportunity to talk or see our loved ones who are far away from us or their families. It is a fact that the Internet creates a lot of convenience, especially for young people and for those who are working in the field of education at a certain level. We can say the above mentioned positive aspects.

But as we know, there are not only positives but also negatives. At a time when the Internet is developing, some people may not notice the negative aspects of the Internet, because the Internet and various social networks related to it have taken a bigger place in people's lives. Language learning is taking deep root among young people of this time, which is considered the age of modern technologies, not only among young people, but also among people of different ages. The reason for this is that due to the demands of the times, the languages of the world are increasing more and more. In the process of learning such languages and when we use our mother tongue, we create defects and shortcomings that we do not know, not that we do not know, that is, we are indifferent. Nowadays, there are certainly social networks that are used on a wide scale and for various purposes.

- FACEBOOK
- TWITTER
- INSTAGRAM
- YOU TUBE
- TELEGRAMM
- GOOGLE
- WHATS APP
- IN
- IMO
- OK

It is true that we use many such internet networks for our needs. In the process of using such internet networks, for example, using the above, we do not pay attention to our SPELLING when talking with loved ones, and to be more precise, we do not follow the rules of correct writing. An example of this is the use of letters and combinations of letters in our native language, which cannot replace them, and sometimes do not match at all, that is, the use of letters that have not taken place in the Uzbek Latin alphabet and have entered from another language. It can also be said that using numbers instead of some letters. We can see such examples below.

- Salom do 'stim o 'qiwlaring yaxwimi?

- O 'zbekimning qizlari juda ham 4iroyli.

As you can see, there are cases where they are not compatible with each other. On the other hand, in letters that have their own symbols, these symbols should not be used in their place, or rather, symbols should not be placed in their place or used with them removed. Such cases can be seen in the letters O', I, G'. If the above-mentioned has a negative impact on orthography, there is also the incorrect use of words, that is, the use of words from other languages instead of words that are in our own language. we can say. For example:

Instead of o'chirilgan hisob — deleted account or o'chirmoq— удалить

It can also be said that not only in Uzbek, but also in other languages, words and numbers with similar pronunciation are written interchangeably. For example: In the form of "u" not "you".

"2" not "to/too".

"4" not "for".

"8" not "ate".

"r" not "are".

I want to be a teacher / I want to be a teacher.

He bought a new phone for his sister/ He bought a new phone for his sister.

They ate ice cream / They 8 ice cream.

You are my brother / He is my brother.

Such situations may seem simple or without any change and meaning, but in fact, the use of words with a more nuanced and incorrect meaning has serious negative consequences. Considering that people are conscious beings, it is certainly appropriate to know that they need to use the opportunities and facilities given to them correctly and usefully.

Referances:

1. Abbate, Janet, Inventing the Internet. MIT Press, 2000.
2. Crystal, David. English as a Global Language. Cambridge University Press, 2003.
3. Crystal, David. Language and the Internet. Cambridge University Press, 2006.