

SCIENTIFIC PEDAGOGICAL PRINCIPLES OF FOREIGN LANGUAGE TEACHING FOR PRESCHOOL CHILDREN

---

Saidova Ramila Iskandar daughter

Denov is a student of the Institute of Entrepreneurship and Pedagogy

Phone: +998 93 262 37 02

Gapparova Dilobar Akmal daughter

Denov is a student of the Institute of Entrepreneurship and Pedagogy

Phone: +998 90 073 02 17

Abstract. If we want to teach children the English language well from a young age, we need to develop every method of organizing this language in them. We call this style LEARNING STYLES in English and we will see how to apply it. If we want to organize languages, we have many styles, actually. We just need to be able to use them correctly. Some people develop exactly one of the styles I briefly mentioned above. And that's the only way he can learn.

Key words: Visual, pedagogy, knowledge, skills, skills, vocabulary

Introduction part. According to psychologists, children learn language faster and easier than adults. The main reasons for this are the natural tendency of children to learn languages, the fact that they have a strong ability to imitate, and the fact that children have more time than adults. After our country gained independence, great attention has been paid to learning foreign languages in our country. In particular, the decision of the President of the Republic of Uzbekistan "On the further improvement of the system of learning foreign languages" adopted on December 10, 2012, and the introduction of foreign languages in the first classes of general education schools starting from the 2013-2014 academic year. the introduction of continuous training is proof of this. For this reason, great attention is paid to education and learning and teaching foreign languages in our country. So, how to teach languages easily to children? Scientists say that compared to adults, children's ability to remember is much faster and more efficient. As a future pedagogue, I believe that in order to teach the language easily, the child should be interested in learning foreign languages from a young age, rather than forcing them. i think Teachers have a big role in this. Every pedagogue should be not only a pedagogue but also a psychologist when working with a child. Because the influence of the external environment and surrounding people quickly affects the child's mind, and whatever direction you show, he will follow that path. A child is like a young seedling, whatever direction you direct it when it is still young, it will grow in that direction, on the contrary, if you bend it without creating a good environment and atmosphere for it to grow, it will stop growing or it will please people in its shadow in the future. a tree that does not bear, does not bear good fruit, has weak roots, and is blind. If we want to teach children English well from a young age, we need to develop every method of learning this language in them. And we call them LEARNING STYLES in English.

Auditory Kinesthetic Read and write Visual- in which the reader learns languages through the ability to see. How does it happen? That is (by seeing the names of things in the language you are learning in pictures and videos) Auditory - you learn foreign languages through this method. That is (with music, movies, cartoons played in the language you are learning or want to learn) Kinesthetic - in this style you learn more through your touch, feeling and sensory organs. For example (apple, its shape is round, its color is red-red, or green-green). In addition, you can learn through manual labor (writing, drawing). Read and Write - by reading and writing. In this, the student learns by reading stories, articles, newspapers given in his native language, finding the translation of unfamiliar words and their meanings with the help of a dictionary, and memorizing it over and over again. If we want to learn languages, we have many styles, actually. We just need to be able to use them correctly in our situation. Some people develop exactly one of the styles I briefly mentioned above. And that's the only way he can learn. For example, you learn a language well by listening, but if you have well-developed visual, reading, and writing skills, your opportunities will be much wider and it will be easier to remember. For this, it is necessary to teach kindergarten and school-age children with interesting games that can be learned with various videos, multimedia films, and visual tools. 'winter skills are well developed.

By learning a few words at students' disposal to describe events or feelings, they can be clear in communicating their ideas and thoughts. possible Since comprehension is the ultimate goal of reading, the importance of vocabulary development cannot be overstated. A strong vocabulary improves all areas of communication - listening, speaking, reading and writing are no exception. In conclusion, vocabulary and learning them is a very important issue for us in learning a foreign language. Because a word is pronounced differently in any language and differs from our native language in its pronunciation, spelling, etc. Therefore, it is impossible to learn a new language without new words.

The main part. It's no secret to any of us that knowing the words of any language is very important. Because a person learning another language can't achieve anything without learning its words. Vocabulary represents one of the most important skills necessary for teaching and learning a foreign language. It is the basis for developing all other skills such as reading comprehension, listening comprehension, speaking, writing, spelling and pronunciation.

Today, there is a lot of freedom in choosing the methods used in English classes. The English curriculum is organized around both vocabulary and grammatical structures. Therefore, teachers usually have the necessary time to teach vocabulary and require practice. Vocabulary is no longer considered as an adjunct, and therefore teachers have a deeper understanding of the importance of vocabulary and are especially concerned with teaching the grammatical analysis of words. However, not all children move at the same speed and may have some difficulties in expressing themselves fluently, so they may find it difficult to speak English. Another aspect that makes the dictionary difficult is the pronunciation of some words. It is known that some students may have problems with vocabulary such as pronouncing some words, the following methods can help the teacher to help the students. To acquire a large vocabulary, students must not only learn as many words as possible, but also remember them, because learning is remembering. These several methods are designed to help students memorize words effectively and teachers make the learning process easier for their students, one of the methods a teacher can use to teach vocabulary it is repetition. This is an important technique in learning and teaching vocabulary. To keep words in memory as long as possible, repetition alone is ineffective, so he needs to understand the meaning of these words and their correlation with other words that have been learned in the same way. Another important method is to use newly learned words. In this case, teachers' lives are also valuable. In the classroom, teachers should encourage students to speak as much as possible and encourage vocabulary practice by designing vocabulary-based activities and games.

Vocabulary practice is closely related to students' application of vocabulary to real life events. Vocabulary can be easily acquired if students associate the words with events in their daily lives and then allow them to act out a situation where all the words can be entered. This can be done in the classroom or at home and is sure to engage students and achieve positive results. Another method to consider in both learning and teaching vocabulary is imagination. Children learn new words easily when they are taught to associate them with pictures. For example, if the topic is about a travel agency and students have learned to imagine and draw a picture of a building where we want to go to get travel information, they can remember this word for a long time. In this way, students can remember the words they need to learn even when they visualize them. This helps the learning process and keeps the word in long-term memory.

In conclusion, I must emphasize that if we want to build a perfect generation, a great country in the future, we should first of all spend our efforts as teachers and parents to give good education to our young people, innocent children. need Especially, taking into account the fact that they can learn foreign languages perfectly and use this knowledge in foreign countries and at political conferences. And thanks to the knowledge and skills we have given them, they can achieve a bright future, and with this future, they can contribute to the creation of a great country in the future. After all, any good knowledge is more expensive than wealth. Today's era is changing by the hour. Accordingly, we should arm the younger generations with various secular and religious knowledge. The purpose of teaching foreign languages to children will be very useful in their life activities tomorrow. Because they communicate with people from different countries. Learning foreign languages is very important in communicating with them.

REFERENCES:

1. Cottrell, S. (2013) The Study Skills Handbook. Hampshire: Palgrave.
2. British Council. (2016) English for Academics 1 and 2nd. British Council.
3. Duff, Alan. Translation. Oxford: Oxford University Press, 1989.
4. How to Teach English. Jeremy Harmer, Longman 1998
5. How to Teach Grammar. Scott Thornbury, Longman 1999.
5. Barnhart, Clarence Lewis (ed.) (1968). The WorldBookDictionary. Chicago: Thorndike-Barnhart, OCLC 437494